CONN BROTHERS

Lancaster, Ky.

Mr. R. L. Barnett, State Secretary of the Farmers Union, addressed a large gathering of farmers at the court house on Monday afternoon.

School To Begin Monday, July 8th.

Miss Higgins advises us that the schools will begin on July 8th instead of July 1st as was intended.

Notice To The Press.

All papers are requested to post Lancaster's dates among their Fair dates—July 24th, 25th and 26th.

Odd Fellows Improve.

The local lodge of Odd Fellows have made extensive improvements in their hall, put down a new carpet, painted and papered and given it a general overhauling, and they now have one of the handsomest lodge rooms in the state.

Pictures At Crab Orchard.

Famous old Crab Orchard Springs has another attraction this year in a new picture show. The building is located back of the brick part of the hotel and it is a pretty one. It will open July 1st and the pictures will be changed each day.

Mr. Banks of Louisville is the owner and manager of the new theater.

Prof. Nickell Appointed.

It will be good news to the many friends of Prof. S. H. Nickell to know that he has been chosen by the trustees of the Harrodsburg Public Schools to serve as their Principal for another year. Prof. Nickell was at one time connected with the school at this place and he has many friends in Lancaster who are interested in his welfare.

A New Kentucky Resort.

Kentucky is bidding fair to outstrip its neighboring state of Indiana in its number, and the merit of its mineral springs. The latest one to spring into existence is at Dry Ridge in Grant county, and the medicinal properties of the waters are said to be marvelous. Capt. J. A. Doty is just returned from there and is as sprightly as a two year old and now Mr. T. B. Robinson has gone to bathe in the youth giving fountain.

Gipsies.

A large band of gipsies passed through town last week. There was about a dozen wagons, and a dozen people to each wagon. The men were of Brazilian parentage, born in this country, and the women were Cherokee Indians, the papooses, of whom there were many, bright little fellows in their picturesque garb and quaint lingo. The troupe had a number of good horses and ponies, were well dressed, had plenty of money and seemed to be a thrifty lot.

Governor McDermott Now.

For the first time since his election as Lieutenant Governor, Edward J. McDermott was Acting Governor after 4 o'clock last Saturday afternoon, when Gov. McCreary left the State boundary for Baltimore. Gov. McDermott came up from Louisville on the morning train and was in the Governor's office most of the day. He received a telegram from Gov. McCreary as soon as the latter left the State at Catlettsburg. Gov. McDermott will serve as Governor until the return of Gov. McCreary this week.

Circuit Court Adjourns.

Judge Hardin is being commended on all sides for his wise consideration for the farmers in adjourning court until the fourth Monday in August in order to give them an opportunity to get up with their work. Having to attend court at this time of year works a great hardship upon our farmers, as the greater portion of the court involves the farming element, either as jurymen or witnesses, and late in August will be a more opportune time for them to attend. Only one case was tried, Luther Simpson charged with barn burning, which resulted in a hung jury.

LANCASTER FAIR

To Be Held July 24th, 25th and 26th Under The Auspices Of The Local Lodge Knights Of Pythias.

The Lancaster Fair is to hold its eighth annual meeting this year on the 24th, 25th and 26th of July under the auspices of the Local Lodge of Knights of Pythias, which will insure it to be a success. This action was decided upon at an open session of the lodge Tuesday night, at which James A. Beasley was elected President and R. L. Elkin, secretary. Committees were appointed and active preparations are already under way for the biggest and best fair ever held in Garrard county. Extensive improvements will be made, including a comparatively new amphitheatre. Splendid music will be secured, the list of horses already secured is up to the usual standard and more are yet to be booked, dinner on the ground and many new attractions never before seen here have been secured for the midway. Begin now and get your stock ready, there will be rings for home productions exclusively. Make preparations to come and help make this a gala week. The K. P. Lodge never does things by halves, they will spare neither time nor money to make a success of this meeting, give them your hearty co-operation.

County Court Day.

Monday was county court day, and owing to the seasonable weather and the fact that this is the busiest time of year, a very small crowd congregated, and in consequence, business was dull.

At the stock yards there were about 150 cattle, some of them extra good. J. C. Fox bought a nice bunch of extra nice 800 pound heifers paying 54 cents per pound for them; Manager Ross of the yards purchased a nice bunch of calves, and the remainder went in small lots at the prevailing market prices. Horse and mule dealers report the market dull and no offerings for what stuff was on hand.

Capt. Am. Bourne reports the sale of an aged mule for Dr. Smith for $40.; plug horse at from $40. to $70.; sows and pigs at from $17.50 to $25.

Harvey M. Estes Publishes Song.

"Mr. Harvey M. Estes of Lancaster, Ky., who has been attending college here for about two years and who has frequently contributed bits of verse to the local papers, has recently had one of his songs published in sheet music by the H. Hinks Dugdale Co., of Washington D. C.

The title of his song is "In The Cornfields of Kentucky." We predict for Mr. Estes the greatest success in this publication of his writings not only because of its merits but also on account of the interest manifested in the Boys' Corn Clubs, which will naturally make a song of this nature well received."—Georgetown News.

The Record also acknowledges with thanks the receipt of several copies of Mr. Estes' song, and it is also on sale at Hurt & Andersons furniture store. The Georgetown News also publishes a poem by Mr. Estes entitled "Attact on McClelland's Fort," which but for its length and our lack of space, we would be glad to reproduce. Mr. Estes has written several poems and bids fair to make for himself a name as a poet and composer.

Denounced McCreary.

Congressman Harvey Helm made some bitter remarks about the State administration at Lawrenceburg. He is trying to discredit the great Democratic victory of last fall because Hon. Jere Sullivan welded the party together and made success possible after a report had been started at Stanford which came very near wrecking the party in the State. Are the Democrats of the Eighth Congressional district willing to endorse such tactics? The following account of the speaking at Lawrenceburg is taken from the Anderson News:

"Congressman Helm spoke very slurringly of the 'drinking cup' bill that was enacted into law at the last session of the Legislature; he frequently shot at the State administration, headed by Gov. McCreary, claiming that an office-seeker had to do was to go to Frankfort and apply for a job with the recommendation of Mr. Sullivan and same would be granted. He also criticised the school system, taking a shot at the county high schools of the State, saying that they had proved injurious to the graded schools of the State, but when he pointed his finger to Prof. H. V. Bell, of this city, to give assent to his remarks, Prof. Bell said that the school law had not proved that way in Lawrenceburg, of which school he is the principal. Helm then charged Mr. Sullivan with making Palmer and Buckner speeches in 1896, which Judge Sullivan denounced as a falsehood.

Adams-Terrill

The culmination of a happy love affair was consummated Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when Miss Callie Adams became the bride of Mr. O. U. Terrill of Jenkins Ky. The parlor were artistic in their decorations of fern, magnolias and pink hydrangeas. The wedding ring carried on a calligraphy by the little niece of the groom, Miss Isabella Terrill was the same golden band that had united the grooms parents in years ago. Under the sweet low strains of Lohengreus wedding march played by Mrs. J. W. Sweeney, the bride entered the room on the arm of her father and was met by the groom and they stood near the large window with its pretty arrangements of flowers, and were soon under the impressive words of Rev. O. P. Bush, the brides pastor who pronounced them man and wife.

The bride a petite blonde is universally popular and possesses a charming personality, while the groom is the son of the late Mr. McClelland Terrill, and formerly of this county is now Cashier of a prosperous bank in Jenkins Ky, and is to be congratulated on the jewel he has won.

A becoming gown of blue whipcord with stylish hat to match and a large bouquet of bride roses made the bride fair to look upon. The newly wedded couple left at once in an auto by way of Richmond for their home in Jenkins which had been adorned for their happiness, and a little later they will take a short bridal trip to Northern cities.

Mrs. Jack Adams the bride's mother gave a five course dinner Monday evening to the bridal party, the color scheme being pink and green.

Tuesday evening Mrs. Givens Terrill entertained for the same party at an elaborate and dainty 6 o'clock dinner at her home on Richmond street.

Republican County Committee Meeting.

At a meeting of the Garrard County Republican Committee called by chairman, W. C. Wynn on last Monday, County Court day, all existing vacancies were filled and the committee made complete.

The vacancies filled included that of committeeman R. H. Batson of the Court House precinct, who resigned.

William Jennings Bryan Defeated For Temporary Chairman Of The National Democratic Convention At Baltimore By Judge

Alton B. Parker.

When Senator John W. Kern who had been nominated by Hon. William Jennings Bryan for the Temporary Chairmanship, refused to serve and it became evident that the great Commoner himself would have to step into his shoes, Senator elect Ollie James began at once an active canvass for the votes of delegates for Mr. Bryan, but his efforts were useless, even Kentucky casting 173 of her 26 votes for Judge Parker, 71 for Bryan and one delegate who was entitled to a whole vote chance to be absent and not voting. Parker was elected by a vote of 579 to 510.

Friends of Speaker Champ Clark are claiming that the selecting of Judge Parker as Temporary Chairman points strongly to the nomination of the Speaker. However, there is still a chance for the avowed candidates and strong talk of a dark horse. It is almost a certainty that Ollie James will be the Permanent Chairman.

Minister's Wages Principles More Than Life

Pressing Need of More Concern for the Comfort of the Pastor.

ONE subject, at least, treated in the reports read at the New England Southern Methodist Episcopal conference, should find sympathetic, intelligent appreciation by those within and without the denomination and the ecclesiastical calling. The matter of ministers' salaries was presented by District Superintendent Coultas of the New Bedford district. Mr. Coultas finds that 88 churches of his denomination in the Southern New England conference pay their ministers "hardly a living wage, and many of them less than a living wage." As to the speaker's standard of a living wage let it be known that 42 churches pay from $500 to $700 salary, including parsonage, and 46 pay less than $500, including parsonage. The district superintendent says truly that "here are wages almost as low as those of the striking operatives at Lawrence and less than those of the street laborer."

Surely Worthy of His Hire. The Methodists are not alone among the denominations, probably, in underpaying their ministry. When the costly educational preparation and the social and cultured requirements for the modern Christian ministry are considered, it must be conceded that the operative and manual laborer is better off than the great majority of preachers and pastors. It is no defense for laymen to say that clergymen are doing their work for higher considerations than the material. The Master "had not where to lay his head," but to him was freely extended the hospitality of the people of his land and time. He lived as did the average of the plain people to whom he preached—neither better nor worse. But is this true of the minister, say, in the smaller southern New England Methodist parishes? The minister does not enjoy the freedom from financial pinch that his average parishioner does. The inclusion of the parsonage rent as the equivalent of so much wages is actually a considerable reduction from the figures given. Men in most callings receiving $300, $400 or $500 a year do not pay the rentals at which parsonages are appraised. These, like the church edifices, being visible evidences of the degree of liberality of the parishioners, are seldom shabby. There is more willingness to put shingles on the roof than clothing on the occupants.

Reproach to the Church. Men of education, ability, influence, of "power in the community," serving the community, feeding its intellectual, cultured and spiritual flames, upholding the standard of the homes—men of family, often with their own education to pay for and their children's to plan for, giving all their time, their soul, with less personal liberty and privilege than any other worker, all for a dollar or so a day and perhaps a furnished house! Now these are conditions existing in populous, prosperous southern New England; not in a new land, among a struggling pioneer people. It is in an old and great and influential domination, whose preachers and laymen are strong men; not in a new and scattered sect, with mere handfuls of adherents here and there. In the same report from which these facts are taken there are numerous evidences of the devotion and liberality of the churches in other matters. The church strives generally for the cause of better conditions for humanity, for charity, education, for the dissemination of good cheer to the distressed, for the kingdom of heaven on earth. Why not more concern for the pastor's comfort, to assure his cheerful view of life, the education of himself and his children, material sunshine for himself and his helpmates? "The church pays the lowest wages possible," says Mr. Coultas. The church member who in his business "pays the lowest wages possible," would be charged with falling far short of the standard for human brotherliness that is expected of the professing children of God. The moral principle that it is the generous giver who receives generously doubtless would find demonstration in a church better served if its servants were better paid.—Providence Bulletin.

Constraining Love. Everything becomes possible to those who love. The commands of the Lord are no longer grievous, for the soul that loves is gifted by that love, with fresh energies; it discovers in itself unsuspected possibilities, and is supplied with ever flowing currents of new vigor. We shall be enabled to do so much if we love. We live by loving, and the more we love, the more we live; and therefore, when life feels dull, and the spirits are low, turn and love God, love your neighbor, and you will be healed of your wound. Love Christ, the dear master; look at his face, listen to his words, and love will awaken, and you will do all things through Christ who strengthens you. For, "the love of Christ constraineth us."

War. Today commerce, finance, science, education and in Christendom at least, religion, are all against war. The mass of intelligent people is against war. The great industrial army in all civilized countries is against war.—Rev. P. S. Moxom, Congregationalist, Springfield.

A Dreadful Wound.

Pathway of American History Written in Blood and Sacrifice.

LIFE is dear to all of us, and the Almighty meant it to be; but principle, and especially religious principles, are a greater treasure than life. Somehow or other it seems that all great principles have made their way up over the sacrificed lives of martyrs in the right. The pathway of American history is written in the blood and sacrifice of the fathers from Plymouth Rock to now; so of the Church. The torture and the stake have been the steps to the freedom of religion from the shackles of religious tyranny. What a wonderful path the path of history is! When a man or a woman loves principle more than self or life, there will be an effort to establish it. Had not the founders of our State and Church stood for the principles of free government and conscientious action in religion, neither our present glorious State or Christian civilization would ever have been attained.

Religion is nothing without the truth. Ancient history shows that all teaching, philosophy and worship were false and vain without revelation. All the progress of modern times in the greatest nations of the world is due to the presence and spirit and influence of the truth of revelation and of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. So, when this is insisted upon with this injunction, "Go ye into all the world," it is not for us to question expense, labor or results. Our work and mission is to act. This refers to women as well as to men. And, indeed, this experience is essential to the development of a true disciplinship in each individual man or woman. Hence we urge upon laymen and laywomen to identify themselves with this noble cause. First, for the sake of the truth, for the sake of the kingdom of God, that it may be spread abroad upon the whole earth. And then, second, for the reflex influence upon yourself. This kind of work is necessary for the development of the truest kind of a religious spirit. If we are not working for others or for the kingdom, we grow selfish and diminish our personal enjoyment of religion.

Barriers to Success. Activity is as essential in religion as in physical and mental growth. Loving life and loving self is our greatest barrier to success in all undertakings, and as well in religion. Had our fathers and mothers in the life of the Christian church or of the State loved their lives more than the principles for which they stood, what would have become of civil and religious liberty? Now we can look all the way back to Abraham, Moses, the prophets, and apostles, and coming down through centuries we find along the pages of history the lives of saints, patriots and martyrs that went out on the altar of principle. Men and women of the twentieth century, the principle is the same. We must take an active part in the development of character, patriotism, church work, and the spread of the Gospel if we are to save the nations, the Christian church, and even our own lives. Principle must be elevated over life.

This is the greatest and most momentous age in history. If we are ever going to save the world, it must be now. Over the graves of patriots, heroes, prophets, martyrs, apostles and missionaries may be written these words: "They loved not their lives unto death. Patriots bleeding, wounded, suffering and thirsty and faint lay all day and night on the battlefield or behind prison walls that you might enjoy a goodly country and a prosperous and happy life and home. Saints and martyrs have gone to death with songs and prayers on their lips that you and I and coming generations might have the truth.

Shall we not be true to these things? Shall we not be true to the noble character as a sacred heritage? This is the measure of heroes and saints. These are the men and women who have made history. They are the ancestors other nations and ages worship as deity. Shall not we stand, then, where they stood and for the same thing for which they stood? Shall not we join the great Christian forces, and start on in this splendid life? Will we let all of this burden fall on others? Shall the work cease, or will we rally to the rescue? What is your response today? Morals, truth, religion and the world need the missionary spirit more than anything else. We need it in society, politics, the world and the church. And perhaps more than all in the individual heart and in the home. We must quicken the Christian church and its members until they reach the spirit of sacrifice and of forgetting of self. Men and women who will represent great religious interests and stand for them in the great moral and religious issues of this century, are needed.—Rev. J. M. Belmsnyder, D. D.

God's Handiwork.

The "very good" of the creation week was not God's last verdict upon his work, but this: "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased." God is better satisfied with Jesus than he ever could have been with Adam. And his final workmanship is the redeemed man who is "created anew in Christ Jesus." To every new-born soul the spirit witnesses, "well pleased;" and to every glorified life the king shall say "Well done!"

The first man who ever sold Indian Remedies in the State of Kentucky and my remedies have a reputation for themselves that can never be torn down, given up by all who have tried them to do all I claim for them. You may notice most advertising doctors and medicine companies, advertise and publish testimonials of people. They come away from their home town, seldom ever one cured at home. As I have often told my friends in my lectures, testimonials are cheap. What I have and want is walking and talking advertisements and not testimonials of people you never knew, and right here in Garrard, Lincoln, Boyle, Casey, Madison, Clark, Jessamine, Fayette, Franklin and all joining counties, I have hundreds of people who will testify to the merits of my Indian Remedies. When I came to Kentucky four years ago I sold my remedies by putting forth an effort and getting behind them now THE PEOPLE SELL THEM FOR ME, ask any one who has used them they will tell you what you want to know, I have my Remedies now in over 300 Drug Stores, my mail order business is immense as people are using my Remedies all over several states. One of my leaders is PURSLEY'S INDIAN HERBS A 45 DAYS TREATMENT FOR $1.00 For all Blood Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney, Liver, Stomache, Female, and all Nervous Diseases, hundreds of people in Garrard County will testify to their merits.

A Genuine Hair Restorer.

Did you ever know of any hair preparation which would really grow hair and restore the color to gray or faded hair?

There are many preparations highly advertised to do the work, but it is probably your experience that none of them will really meet the claims of their manufacturers.

There are many so-called Hair Restorers which are nothing more than harmful chemical dyes, which do not grow any hair, the only result being that they dyed the hair, having no permanency and often causing a streaky appearance.

It has been the aim of the chemists for years to discover a preparation which would really grow hair and restore the color to gray or faded hair, but heretofore they have met with no success.

Prof. Rembler now claims to have discovered a combination of harmless vegetable composition which is a Genuine Hair Restorer and will grow hair and does not contain any dye of any kind, but will positively restore the natural color and brilliancy to gray and faded hair.

This is a very strong statement to make and if any chemist without the recognized ability and national reputation of Prof. Rembler were to make this claim we would be inclined to be skeptical as to its truth. It will be remembered by readers that are familiar with scientific discoveries that Prof. Rembler was the inventor of the one fire process for gilding glass and also the Rembler wireless Coherer. Any statement made by Prof. Rembler is entitled to consideration as he would not make any statements which were not true and would injure his established reputation.

The Siron Mfg. Co. of Pueblo, Colo., have purchased the exclusive American rights to manufacture Sagine, as they have named Prof. Rembler's invention, after having made a six month's test of Sagine and thoroughly demonstrating that it would positively do the work. The Siron Mfg. Co. have authorized us to make the following remarkable offer to all who need a "Genuine Hair Restorer."

They will send a written agreement with every bottle of Sagine, to the effect that if one bottle of Sagine conscientiously used according to the directions does not give entire satisfaction to the purchaser; if Sagine does not actually grow hair and restore the color to gray or faded hair, remove dandruff and make the hair healthy and glossy, that they will pay the sum of $5 to any dissatisfied purchaser.

This is the strongest offer ever made by any manufacturer and one they could not possibly make if they did not know positively from experiment that it would do exactly what they claim for it. No one takes any chance in buying Sagine as it is certainly worth $1 to use a Genuine Hair Restorer that will grow hair, and if it does not give satisfaction they will pay you the $5 as agreed. Send a $1 bill to The Siron Mfg. Co. Pueblo, Colo., stating that you wish to purchase a bottle of Sagine with the written agreement to grow hair and restore the color to gray or faded hair or pay you the sum of $5 and it will be sent to you by express in plain wrapper.

The Siron Mfg. Co. is incorporated under the Laws of the State of Colorado and refer you to the mercantile agencies or any Pueblo banks as to their ability to fulfill any agreement they make.

THE SIRON MFG CO., Pueblo, Colo.

Administrator's Sale.

I, H. S. Christopher, as administrator of Wm. Christopher, deceased, will on Thursday, July 25th, 1912

After a lingering illness of stomach trouble, Miss Virgie Sherrow aged 16 departed this life at dawn on Saturday morning June 22nd, 1912. She had been a patient sufferer since January and a week before death came submitted to an operation. All that medical aid and skillful nursing could do were of no avail for the Lord said "come" and she answered the call. She leaves father, mother and brother, may they find comfort by looking up through their cloud of sorrow to Him who doeth all things well.

It Helps!

Mrs. J. F. Daniels, of Sip, Ky., writes: "I was so sick for 3 or 4 years, I had to hire my work done, most of the time. I had given up hope. When I began to take Cardui, I knew, right away, it was helping me. Now, I am better than ever before in my life, and Cardui did it."

NOTES From MEADOWBROOK FARM By William Pitt

Clean up and disinfect.

Every farmer should have a garden.

Turn the horse out to pasture at night.

Overexertion is as bad for the colts as no exertion.

Now that cows are on grass they will need salt often.

Sheep, unlike hogs, need to be dipped only once a year.

The well-fed colt requires more exercise than the poorly fed one.

There is little use in wasting time over a crippled or deformed chick.

Poultry can not stand any more neglect in warm weather than in cold.

A mongrel fowl is one that has resulted from the haphazard mating for years.

One good sire can do wonders in improving the dairy herds of a neighborhood.

If a horse is required to do extra work he should be liberally and frequently fed.

Don't keep tapping your horse with the whip unless you want to drive a regular old plug.

Generous feeding and frequent salting will help to fortify the lambs against the parasites.

Dipping does more than merely kill lice. Disease germs, especially in the case of hogs, are destroyed.

No matter how good their conformation, the vast majority of little horses sell at corresponding little prices.

Give the cows a fair show. To expect a large flow of rich milk from them on insufficient or poor feed is unjust.

Corn lands should be put in the best possible condition so that the little roots can get the most nourishment out of the soil.

Cattle that have been well wintered can be put on the early grass fat market and good judges think this market will be a high one.

Under ordinary circumstances the poorer the feed the greater the daily cost of milk and butter-fat, and the less will be the profit.

As warm weather approaches the task of preventing drinking water for hogs from becoming contaminated becomes more and more difficult.

Of later years the Clydesdales have been coming on in draft horse popularity and the breed is now occupying quite a place among the pullers.

The old ducks need a swimming pond, as their feathers will not be nearly so good without the water and their eggs will be much more fertile.

Clover hay can be put in the mow safely with more sap in it than timothy, but neither will keep without molding when put in with dew or rain on it.

It costs from two to six cents more to produce a pound of fat pork than a pound of ordinary bacon, but the difference is on the other side at market time.

Alfalfa makes the best pasture, but peas and oats run in equal parts, also rape, clover and a mixture of wheat and oats sown thickly makes excellent pig forage.

Most all our gardens can be at least double cropped by selecting early varieties of vegetables such as cabbage, lettuce, onions, beets, bunch beans, potatoes and early corn.

As soon as the pigs have been put into the fattening pens in the fall they should be fed all that they will eat with a relish; for the shorter the fattening period the larger the profits.

Before starting up a hill with a load, and when the top of the hill is reached, give the team a rest. Let them catch their breath. Undue forcing of horses up a hill with a load frequently causes heart and lung disorders.

Cherries require very little pruning.

The cow and the sow make a good farm team.

Drive a colt the first time with a fast walking horse.

The hens will relish a feed of scalded oats at any time.

Pull radishes just as soon as they are big enough to bite.

"Study to be quiet" is a fine thing in handling a team anywhere.

Chaff from the hay mow floor makes the best litter for chicks.

Too sudden a change of diet for the young calf is bound to start trouble.

Covered cream or milk cans on the way to town bespeak a careful dairyman.

There is every indication that grass fat beef will bring a good price this summer.

When the calf is two weeks old some skim-milk may be added to the usual feeding.

A horse that is watered two or three times a day is apt to drink too much at one time.

Fine corn meal for the skim-milk calf is a good substitute for the more expensive oilmeal.

Clean the mud from the horse's limbs during seedling operations, and prevent scratches and fever.

Quality in vegetables is the result of quick, unchecked growth, and this means plenty of water at all times.

It is not a difficult proposition to raise calves when the feeder uses some precaution in their management.

After turkey chicks are six weeks old they must be allowed to range else they will be sadly stunted in growth.

It is a mistake to try to fatten the brood sow. She should not be kept with the hogs that are being prepared for market.

While it requires one sort of education to make a good riding or driving horse, it requires another to make a cart horse.

Hens that roost in a damp, close house are apt to give out in the leg joints with a trouble somewhat akin to rheumatism.

It is easy to notice the effect of grass on the milk, but, with the cows that have silage, the change will be less perceptible.

Fruit trees planted in the hog pasture will supply shade and abundance of food in the fall when the trees come into bearing.

Better dairying should be the aim of every dairy farmer. It is only as he strives for better things that he can approach his ideal.

The man who makes a success at dairying or any other line of work starts with the right aim and never changes or loses sight of it.

Tests at experiment stations have shown that 20 per cent of the cream is saved by the use of a separator as compared with hand skimming.

There is no problem that is of greater importance today than conservation of soil fertility. The dairy cow, the hog and the hen help solve it.

Good care consists in doing everything from milking and caring for the cows to marketing the butter or cream as if your whole life success depended upon it.

Mix plaster of Paris and turpentine, mould in the shape of eggs, and put one in each nest to kill lice and mites. Do not use with eggs that are hatching.

There are 28 silos within a short distance of this farm. Many farmers have been closely pressed in order to find feed for their stock but none of the silo owners were.

A city chicken man has found a good way to break a broody hen. He puts an alarm clock in the nest and when the clock goes off that hen goes off too—and never comes back.

The cost of hauling over our country roads is now about 25 cents per ton per mile. In European countries the cost is below 10 cents. Our bad roads are an expensive proposition.

Shallow cultivation of corn is most in favor with the experiment stations, but much seems to depend upon climatic conditions. In dry climates you can safely cultivate deeper—three to four inches.

There is nothing like pasture to make good gains on any kind of stock when fed in connection with corn. In hog feeding we do not think we are putting it too strongly to say that pasture saves 25 per cent in feed.

The injury to various fruit crops by insects of all kinds is very great, as every one knows, but Prof. Steadman says that the damage to truck crops by insects every year exceeds the damage to fruit crops. And yet how few gardeners take steps to protect their crops.

After you take Dr. King's New Life Pills, and you'll quickly enjoy their fine results. Constipation and indigestion vanish and fine appetite returns. They regulate stomach, liver and bowels and impart new strength and energy to the whole system. Try them. Only 25c at R. E. McRoberts & Son.

Usefulness of Hypatia

When it was finally decided to tear down the old building in one back room of which Mr. Bellamy and several of his cronies had met on Thursday evenings to play skat and enjoy other festivities appropriate to the occasion, the burning question of the hour became "what to do with the club house cat."

"One of you fellows," said the man who owned the house and incidentally had owned the cat, "ought to take care of her. Hypatia is a good cat and fine looking. It would be a shame to turn her out into the street with no home and no friends. Bellamy, she has always been fond of you. What's the matter with your taking her?"

"Me?" exclaimed Bellamy. "Me? Good Lord! My wife hates cats."

"Never mind, old girl," he said, "I won't go back on you. We'll go up to the house together and see what we can do."

Bellamy carried Hypatia home in a hat box. Mrs. Bellamy viewed the bundle with suspicion and alarm.

"What have you there?" she asked.

"Just a little surprise," said Bellamy lamely.

He raised the lid of the box and Hypatia, released from her unwonted confinement, jumped half way across the room.

"A cat!" she cried. "Why, Harvey, that is a cat. What did you bring her here for?"

"To kill the mice," said Bellamy.

"Mice?" she echoed. "Why, there isn't a mouse about the place."

"There ain't," said Bellamy excitedly. "Great Scott, haven't you heard 'em? Why, the way they rampage through the walls every night playing golf and baseball is enough to wake the dead. I haven't been able to sleep for a week on account of the racket. That's the reason I got Hypatia. I want her to kill them off."

So for one night at least Hypatia was permitted to enjoy the hospitality of the Bellamys. The next morning Bellamy took his time at dressing. His wife, being curious concerning the welfare of her unwelcome guest, preceded him to the store room where Hypatia had been quartered for the night, and cautiously opened the door. As Hypatia rushed out she looked in and straightway sounded a ringing call to arms. Bellamy bolted down the hall from one direction and the cook from the other.

"What is the matter?" they asked.

"A mouse!" responded Mrs. Bellamy, weakly, and keeled over against the wall. Bellamy held the rodent at arm's length and flourished it by the tip of the tail triumphantly.

"What did I tell you?" he said. "Didn't I say the house is alive with them?"

"Yes," admitted his wife. "It's funny I never heard them, though. I suppose we'll have to keep Hypatia another night now."

Immediately after breakfast Mrs. Bellamy summoned the janitor and pointed to the moribund mouse.

"Henry," she said severely, "what is that?"

A look of consternation overspread the big Swede's infantile face.

"A maas," he gasped. "A maas. Where you got heem?"

If the cultivation of mice in a private apartment had been the height of human ambition Mrs. Bellamy could have betrayed exultation no more complete than that which thrilled her voice as she replied:

"Here. Right here in our own flat. I want you to clean out my storeroom and take up my carpets and rugs and stop all the rat holes. The things will eat us alive if we don't get rid of them."

Although the bewildered Swede worked until bedtime tearing up carpets and moving furniture, neither mice nor their means of egress and ingress were discovered. Nevertheless that night Hypatia slew two more of her hereditary foes.

"I am going out this afternoon to look for a flat. I can't stand it to be eaten by mice," said Mrs. Bellamy.

She really did start, but she had got no further than her own hall door when she met a boy who wanted to see Mr. Bellamy.

"What do you want to see him about?" she asked.

"Oh, nothin' much," was the vague reply.

Mrs. Bellamy opened the door to the latest limit.

"Little boy," she said, with seductive graciousness, "wouldn't you like a dish of pudding and some fruit?"

"Yes, ma'am," said the boy.

She entertained him for half an hour. As a result of the interview she abandoned her intention of looking for another flat.

"I am glad of that," said Bellamy that evening when apprised of her decision. "Where is Hypatia?"

The distressed sweetness of Mrs. Bellamy's voice was positively cloying.

"I gave her," she said, "to little Billy Moses. He was up here this afternoon to see if you want him to deliver any more dead mice, and to collect for those he has already furnished. He says his father's shop is overrun with them, and I thought he might find Hypatia useful."

Common Fault.

"Dashleigh thinks his dancing is the poetry of motion."

"It has one characteristic in common with some alleged poetry."

"What is that?"

"It seems to stumble along with uncertain feet."

A Boston Baby.

"What's the baby crying about?"

"The nurse thoughtlessly told him that Shakespeare's plays are supposed by many to have been written by Bacon. Get him his Sanskrit blocks. They may divert his attention."

What She Really Meant

"I can't see," began the girl who likes to talk, "why the business of being an interpreter doesn't flourish nowadays. I'm thinking of starting out in it myself and I'm sure I'd make a large income. I don't mean interpreting foreign languages, but just plain English!"

"I have learned through painful years of bumping my cranium against stone walls and I yearn to take under my wing all the poor, bewildered mortals who still think the words people use express what they mean. I want to pat them on the back soothingly and murmur 'There! There!' and then explain to them that 'Do you like pink chickens?' really means, 'We came on the 10 o'clock train.'"

"For instance, Mrs. Gamboe calls you up over the phone some morning and says, 'My dear, we're having a few people in to cards tonight and want you to come. I just got it up on the spur of the moment—it's only a little informal affair. Oh, most informal, my dear. I assure you! Just to a few friends! So glad you can come! Go-o-o-b-y!'"

"I've seen the time when I'd have dismissed the matter until just before time to dress, when I would not have even glanced at the shelf carrying my party gowns in boxes. I would have picked out some high necked thing. Probably I'd have just worn my hair as I ordinarily do and would have taken a street car to get to the scene of the festivities. But not now!"

"I have grown wiser. I know that the English language does not mean what it is made to say. So I spend all my time after luncheon preparing to go to Mrs. Gamboe's informal little affair. I have my hair dressed and my face massaged, and I get an extra manicure, and I have all my clothes under inspection, and I pick out at last my very best gown. Then I borrow mother's Paris evening wrap and phone for a taxi and wait five minutes in the crush at the door before I can even get in. There will be a Hungarian band playing under the stairs and the whole place will be simply broken out with caterers' men, who pass you along from one to the other solemnly trying to act as though they had butlered and footmaned in that one spot for several decades, as had their fathers before them."

"By this time I wish I had borrowed mother's diamond tiara, because I begin to feel kind of plain in only a satin and crystal gown and a string of pearls. There will be a four course supper and American beauty roses bursting out from all corners."

"It is really maddening to think what unlimited money and a telephone will do nowadays. It seems to me that they take away all the fun of giving a party all the worry being removed. These rich women do not have to count their napkins and say, 'My goodness! I'll have to borrow Cousin Nell's best ones to fill out!' They do not discover that they haven't enough forks and that the spare room hasn't been dusted. All they do is phone a caterer and a florist and tell Mary to be sure to see that she dusts extra well downstairs. Then they can go to a luncheon and two teas and make a few calls and when they arrive home at dinner time they say, 'Dear me! I'd almost forgotten that I have a card party tonight!'"

"Then when you drop in to see a friend and she keeps you waiting half an hour before she comes down, and you say, 'I hope I didn't disturb or interrupt,' and she murmurs sweetly, 'Not at all, my dear! I was just looking my collar, and I am so slow about doing things!' you would realize, if you had an interpreter at hand, that she meant that she was up in the third floor sewing room working like mad with a seamstress making over clothes and hadn't brushed her hair since she had twisted it into a knob on arising, and had on a kimono thing and old slippers. Also that she said when your card came up, 'Now, what on earth did she come today of all days for, I'd like to know! Isn't it provoking!'"

"My helping hand would be of benefit also to prosy and boring and spoiled old bachelors when a sweet young thing of 20 leans over and looks into their eyes and beseeches, 'Do tell me all about how you make iron beams! I am so-o-o interested! It must be such a fascinating business!'"

What she really means is, "If I can keep you talking to me as though your life depended on it I can get Harry stirred into a perfect frenzy of jealousy. He needs to be taken down a peg or two, the way he's acting of late with that Jenkins girl!"

"I'm quite charmed with the possibilities of my plan for a new profession!" concluded the girl who likes to talk. "Don't you want to employ me?"

"I do not," emphatically said the man to whom she was talking. "I've already had lesson No. 1—and now please point out which one of those fellows is your Harry!"—Chicago Daily News.

Accommodating Death Rate.

Bacon—Norway is the only European country, I understand, to enjoy a lower death rate than England.

Egbert—Yes, they say Norway's death rate is low enough to be within the reach of all.

Contrary Justice.

"There is one condition of retribution which goes by contraries."

"What is that?"

"The one in which crooked men find themselves in straightened circumstances."
